

Opioid Litigation Results in $114 Million to Address Crisis

Sentinel Media Group Offers Trusted Guidance to Municipalities to Ensure Proper Fund Allocation

John J. Tassoni Jr., President/CEO of Sentinel Media Group, has decades of experience working on the critical issues affecting substance use and mental health disorders.

As the opioid crisis continues to devastate our state, and nation, Attorney General Neronha announced $114 million in settlement funds to be distributed among Rhode Island's 39 cities and towns. It is essential that this money be used responsibly by municipalities to ensure that funds directly address the opioid crisis.

By working with substance use advocates, John offers trusted guidance to city and town leaders to make certain all resources support initiatives to end this deadly epidemic. This includes prevention and community development and outreach to schools, parents and other stakeholders.

EXPERIENCE:
